Whether you're indoors cozying up with a book or venturing out to enjoy the winter landscape, there's something in store for everyone.

So grab your hot cocoa, snuggle up, and dive into a season of discovery!

STORYTELLING ADVENTURES IN WINTER

One chilly afternoon, Lucy built a snowman in her backyard. She gave him a carrot nose, a scarf, and buttons made of coal. As she finished, she whispered, "Oh Mr. Snowman, how I wish you could come to life!"

To Lucy's surprise, a warm glow surrounded the snowman. Suddenly, he blinked and smiled! "Thank you for bringing me to life kind human!" he said.

They spent the day playing in the snow, having snowball fights and sliding down hills. As the sun began to set, the snowman said, "I can't stay for long, but I'll always be your friend."

He melted into sparkling snowflakes, but Lucy knew the magic of their wonderful day would last forever.

Teachers' Insight

Winter is the coldest season, bringing snow, ice, and shorter days. The trees are bare, the air is cold and the sky is grey.

There are life lessons we learn from winter: The short days urge us to work hard and rest harder. We have to focus on work since the daylight is limited. Winter time encourages us to transform our fears into courage, love and wisdom and preparing for new beginning.

Winter is the time to reflect what has happened and what's to come.

VOCABULARY BUILDER

In Hong Kong's chill, the season's bright,
With lanterns glowing in the night.
We gather around in cozy space,
Learning with smiles on every face.
Snowflakes might not fall like snow,
But winter's spirit helps us grow.
Through stories shared and lessons planned,
Together we learn, hand in hand.
From culture rich to tales anew,
In winter's warmth, we're learning, too!

During Christmas holidays, I went to Japan with my family, and it was the best trip ever! I was so excited to see the snow. It looked like a magical world!

One day, we drove to a hill to play in the snow. My dad was driving the car. He laughed as we went up the slippery road. He joked, "I'm going crazy!" But it was so much fun. The snow was soft and cold, and we laughed a lot that day. I will always remember my snowy adventure in Japan!
